

AGREEMENT WITH “TRIBES”

The Art of Collaboration Proposal for organizations and coordinators

Introduction to the “tribes”

The “Tribe” or collaborating organization: any organization that is relevant for the global collaborative movement and that fulfills the following requirements:

- Is aligned with the values of TheArtof-CO: Spirit of Collaboration.
- Significant attendance: minimum of 15 people (aprox.)
- Will to participate as an organization in the conversation with other tribes
- Coordination and representation
 - Coordination: There will be one spokesperson between the tribe and the organizing team. The coordinator will co-identify the answers to the following questions for the tribe:
 - What can web ring to the event as a tribe?
 - What could we do better if we create synergies with other tribes or networks?
 - Representation: there will be at least one person to represent the tribe during the event. This person does not necessarily have to hold a specific position within the network she will represent. The attendance of several people who are familiar with the essence of the tribe will facilitate cross-pollination with other networks.
 - These two positions do not have to held by the same person from the tribe.

Some examples of Tribes are:

Group facilitation, Dragon Dreaming, Art of Hosting, Theory U, CO-Working, Visual/Design Thinking, OpenSpace, Agile, Sociocracy, Process Work, Transition Towns, ImpactHUB, Ouishare, Permaculture, Teal/Integral Organizations, Forum...

www.theartof-co.com
tribes@theartof-co.com

THE TRIBE

What does it obtain?

- Discount for its attending members (individually):
 - 25% for the CO-Laboratory
 - 10% for the CO-Learning
 - 15% for the FullPass
- Benefits during the event (for groups, 15 people minimum):
 - Access to a room on Monday and Thursday just for the tribe, and access to romos for meetings between tribes on Tuesday and Wednesday.
 - Different offers of support from the facilitators present in the event to respond to the needs that may arise (these services are billed separately at 100 euros/hour).
 - A 20-minute slot to present the Project, service or experience.

What does it contribute?

- A commitment of attendance. Payment of the corresponding fees with the discount.
- Promotion of the event through their networks.
- One post per week for the blog of the Art of Co. about their topic (can be written by all participants, preferably both in English and Spanish) and contribute to the event's Facebook page.
- Generation of content for workshops and talks. Support with the activities that are relevant to the tribe.
- A spirit of collaboration and will to connect, co-learn and co-create. To come with the active intention of looking for synergies with other tribes.

THE COORDINATOR

What does she obtain?

- A free ticket* for the CO-Lab Full Pass.
 The ticket will include 100% of the Co-Lab pass if the coordinator can bring at least 10 people from the tribe. This discount will diminish according to the number of people (7 people = 75%; 5 people = 50%, until a minimum of a guaranteed 25% off).*
- The experience of being an active part of the Organizational Tree of The Art of Collaboration: learn from the inside about how to organize an event such as this one, being part of the team, being the point of contact at the national and international level with the tribe, and representing the needs of the tribe before and during the event.
- Support from the Tribes Coordinator (tribes@theartof-co.com) for outreach activities and any other need regarding logistics and coordination.

What does she contribute?

- Actively participate in Trello for the planning of the event and the identification of the needs of the tribe. These needs will be shared during the event and will serve to establish synergies between networks.
- Coordinate the writing and publication of a weekly post for the Art of Co blog and Facebook event page, prior to the start of the event, about their topic.
- Be the person in charge of receiving the discount codes and redistribute them among the tribe. The codes must be distributed to as many people as possible who are part of the tribe, both nationally and internationally.

 Each coordinator will receive 1 code (number) per tribe, so all people of that tribe will have the same code. People will be able to choose in what modality they wish to “spend” their code, and will receive different discounts depending on their choice. The codes will be sent through tribes@theartof-co.com*

-
- Be the only contact person between the tribe and the organizing team of the Art of Co. Coordinate the logistics for tribe attendees and workshop leaders: as if anybody from the tribe wants to offer a workshop at the Co-Learning space during the weekend, and get organized so that the content offered is not redundant.

Important: it is not compulsory to offer a workshop.

- Weekly contact between the tribe coordinator and the organizing team about the evolution of the tribe. A weekly meeting will be scheduled to check in about organization, number of participants, needs, etc., prior to the event.
- Circulate the event information as much as possible in their networks through Mailchimp and Facebook.
- Share with the event the communication networks the tribe commonly uses.

THE WORLD

What does it obtain?

If all the tribes manage to move forward and collaborate among ourselves the world will witness a great step forward. Collaboration is the key ingredient to respond to all the challenges we face. Let's collaborate and learn from the tools and experiences that already exist so that we can continue to generate practices that are healthier and fairer. That's what this event is all about. Do you want to help more people access the event? LET'S COLLABORATE!

Thank you for your support.
If you have any questions don't hesitate to ask.

